Wasatch County Sheriff's deputies broke up "the party of the century" a little after midnight on Saturday, Sept. 22.

Deputy Wayne Winterton was on his regular rounds when he noticed the new Soldier Hollow communications building was under siege.

College students from Brigham Young University (BYU) and Utah Valley State College (UVSC) filled the new building.

The "party of the century" was in full swing.

Sheriff Mike Spanos said when Winterton arrived, students started to flee the area. The deputy called for assistance. Deputy Lance Christensen arrived shortly afterwards.

According to Spanos, more than 120 party-goers were "field carded." This means the information on their drivers licenses or identification cards were taken down.

Spanos said no one with a local address was carded.

He said the students had responded to an invitation distributed all over BYU and UVSC campuses. The invitation advertised the party, "The Big Pimpin in the Woods," as "SLOC sponsored."

The disc jockey told deputies that he'd been hired but not paid. He said he didn't know the last name of the person who hired him but he thought he was a UVSC student.

Spanos said someone had been charging students $3 at the door to get in to the dance/party at the Soldier Hollow complex. The doors had been damaged to gain access

Unfortunately, the Courier seems oblivious to the responsibility inherent in the power they hold. The reporters and editor abuse their power on a weekly basis, displaying total disrespect for the profession as they recklessly side-step any journalistic code of ethics in their race to slam both public figures and private citizens. Objectivity is never an issue. "Truth" is twisted and distorted.

In their coverage of the proposed change of government the Courier has arrogantly attempted to paint themselves as heroes saving us from corrupt politicians who hold secret meetings.

It is apparent that both papers favor the change but we have yet to hear anything that clearly outlines the advantages and disadvantages of such a proposal in an objective way.
